CONTINGENT FOR CAMP LEE ON WAY SOUTH

Twenty-seven Stalwart Defenders Entrain At 3.45 For The Long Trip South

DENT B. HOLDEN IN CHARGE

The farewell service for the Camp Lee boys was held in the Court room at 2 o'clock. The contingent met in Exemption Board headquarters at 1.30 and after Dent B. Holden, of Clearfield, had been named as Captain, Chief Clerk Bain read the boys their final instructions.

Each man was given a sweater, Red Cross kit, lunch box and other necessary equipment, following which they were formed in line and the march to the Court House begun.

When the Court room was reached the men were grouped inside the rail and President Woodward of the Committee of Public Safety called the assembly to order and introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. John P. McCurdy. Mr. McCurdy delivered an eloquent farewell. He pointed out to the boys the herculean task they were about to engage in and bade them go into the fray with the true American spirit and with clean minds and clean bodies. Rev. McCurdy's address was inspiring and met with the sincere appreciation of the soldier boys.

Mr. McCurdy was the only speaker and at the close of his remarks the march to the station was begun and when the 3.45 train arrived the thirty-two soldier lads swung aboard and the train departed amid the cheers of the several thousand people assembled.

Mike Withura, of Ramey, one of the contingent to leave for Camp Lee today had short shrift between registration and being called for service. Mike claimed to have been working in the timber woods of Michigan on registration day, June 10, 1917, and as he did not know anything about it failed to register. He is 24 years of age and an American-born Slav. When he came back home to Ramey recently the constable there discovered that Mike had neglected his duty as an American citizen and when he failed to produce a registration card on demand, took him into custody and landed him in Fort Gorman, where he has been engaged with the other prisoners for the past few days diving for the occasional bean in the soup.

Yesterday Chief Clerk John M. Bain had Mike brought up from jail and Dr. Stewart, President of the Exemption Board, examined him and found him a fit specimen for military service and he was placed on the list of those going to Camp Lee today. Mike's being the first case of the kind to come before the board.

Withura said he was willing now to do his duty and stopped with the other out of town boys at The Windsor last night. He was promptly on deck this morning and professes to like his new job alright.

Following is a list of the names of Uncle Sam's Liberty Soldiers who left Clearfield county yesterday and today for Camp Lee:

DEITRICK WANTS ALL PROGRESSIVES TO BE REPUBLICANS

"In a symposium upon candidates and issues, I am safe in making the following summary and declaring it to represent the progressive sentiment of the state:

"FIRST—As a matter of practical politics all the progressives of the state should enroll in the Republican primaries this spring.

"SECOND—A very large percentage, in fact practically all progressives, demand that Pennsylvania ratify the national prohibition amendment. I might say here parenthetically that there were many who were progressives in 1912, who are now opposed to prohibition, but their number is small and their influence slight. A present effort to build sentiment among progressives on the part of the old stand-pat crowd is meeting response only from the friends of 'booze.'

"THIRD—The progressives demand that the social legislation placed on the statute books during the administration of Governor Brumbaugh be maintained in full strength and be supplemented by additional legislation, providing for old age pensions, health insurance, etc.

"FOURTH—The progressives demand that the government of Pennsylvania shall be in the hands of men who are keenly alive to the nation's needs in this supreme crisis in the world's history, men who know and appreciate the sentiments of the common people and who have a broad grasp upon affairs, so that in the great work of reconstruction, which must follow this war, Pennsylvania shall maintain its proud position as the 'Keystone State.'

"FIFTH—As to the candidacies of individuals already mentioned for state office, I find little dissent, in fact, a practically unanimous sentiment, in favor of J. Denny O'Neil for governor.

"The progressives exercising their citizenship through the medium of the Republican party will be such a factory in the forthcoming campaign as to astonish and flabbergast those old stand-patters who have failed to awaken to the fact that the world is rapidly moving away from them and that they belong to things archaic."

Guy Fenton, one of the local boys sent to Camp Lee in the last contingent was rejected by the army surgeon at Petersburg on account of defective eyesight, and has returned home.

SEAGULLS REVEAL MINE

London, Feb. 23.—By Mail—"Seagulls Save Ship" might be the headline for this story. A pilot off the southeast coast saw a number of the birds clustered on top of the water directly on the ships course. The peculiar formation in which they were hunched led him to take a look with his glass and he saw they were sitting on a floating mine, one bird on each contact prong. A twitch of the wheel and the vessel passed safely by.

A few hundred yards past the ship fired a shot over the mine to scare off the birds. A second shot, and the ocean was rid of the menace.

JEWISH FEAST OF PURITY WILL START THIS EVENING

New York, Feb. 26.—The celebration of the Jewish feast of Purim begins at sunset this evening, and will continue until sunset tomorrow evening.

It is primarily a joyous celebration, and is entirely peculiar in tone, consisting of merry-making and feasting, of making gifts to friends and relatives and the giving of "shalach-monos," or gifts, to the poor is especially enjoined.

The feast of Purim is the most popular of all feasts among the Jews and for a long time held high prominence for the spirit of revelry and boisterous merrymaking which attended it. In bygone ages, when ghetto walls enclosed their settlements, it was one of the rare occasions when the heavy gloom that weighed upon them was relieved by the historic lesson that Israel's enemies were always in the end defeated and punished. It is an historic fact that Purim was never more joyously celebrated than in periods of persecution.

The celebration of Purim is based upon the events recorded in the book of Esther, which tells the story of the plot of Haman to exterminate the Persian Jews in the reign of Xerxes and their deliverance through the efforts of Mordecai and Esther. The story is one of the most remarkable in the Old Testament and in the perfect cast of characters presented, as well as in the harmonious sequence of its events, exhibits a dramatic unity which makes it comparable to a play of Shakespeare.

The higher critics have declared it a historical romance and refused to give it a place in the annals of established historical events. One curious fact is that the author makes no mention whatever of the name of God, and for that reason the Jews themselves have questioned its right to be included among canonical books of the Bible.

GRASS FLAT HOLDS UNIQUE RED CROSS SCHOOL FESTIVAL

The public schools of Grassflat took part in the Junior Red Cross drive and as a result rounded up a large number of new members.

At the Grammar school, part of Friday afternoon was given over to the proper celebration of the event. First, several patriotic songs were sung; then the "Story of the Red Cross" was read. Following this, all the members formed in line and each member, as he passed by the large Red Cross poster, posted one of the small red crosses on it. This was a very pleasing part of the program and very much enjoyed by all. When all were again seated some one very unexpectedly—to the teacher at least—called for three cheers for the Red Cross, and to be sure the Red Cross got three as hearty cheers as it is likely to get in this country, or anywhere else for that matter.

The program ended with a few remarks by the teacher followed by the singing of America, the song which thrills every true American and makes him feel more than ever that we must win this war and thus preserve our institutions and the freedom of our beloved country.

STATE LEAGUE WILL ENFORCE THE DRY LAW

Manufacturers And Business Men Of New Hampshire Will Back Up The Dry Law

WILL FIGHT ALL INFRACTIONS

Concord, N. H., Feb. 26.—To make prohibition effective when it becomes operative in New Hampshire next May, leading manufacturers and business men from all sections of the state have been called to a conference to be held at the state house in this city tomorrow. The New Hampshire Anti-Saloon league, which took the initiative in calling the conference, has received assurance that some one representing practically every industry and occupation will be present, in addition to Governor Keyes and other state officials.

The idea of the conference will be to present to the business and commercial interests this question: Shall farmers, who will do well to attend the New Hampshire have real prohibition? Officials of the Anti-Saloon league have collected from several prohibited states a mass of testimony from employers of labor and other leading men in industry regarding the good effects of prohibition upon their business.

New Hampshire had a prohibitory law previous to 1903 but it was not enforced, and the general public, disgusted with a prohibition that did not prohibit, repealed the law and adopted local option. Last year the local option law was repealed and a bone-dry prohibitory law, said to be one of the strictest laws of its kind in the country, was enacted. To maintain the law against the campaign that is already under way to repeal it, the Anti-Saloon league believes a vigorous enforcement is necessary and such enforcement can only come through efficient public officers backed by strong sentiment.

Proximity of licensed saloons in Massachusetts cities to the southern part of this state will be an obstacle to proper law enforcement. It is expected that liquor will be carried over the state line in automobiles unless officials are alert. The law provides for the appointment by the governor of an official whose duty will be to enforce the law and who will have great authority in doing so.

DEATH ANGEL BUSY

Mrs. Elwood Wail, a most highly respected resident of Penn township, died at her home near Grampian last night aged about 58 years. She is survived by her husband and several sons and daughters.

AVIATOR SHOOTS EAGLES

London, Jan. 24.—By Mail—Eagle hunting is a casual past time for at least one Allied aviator. Flight-Captain Mortureaux of the French Salonika army, shot two while flying near Mount Olympus. He landed, secured the game, and returned to his hangar with them.

MUTTON AND LAMB NOT ALLOWABLE ON MEATLESS DAY

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—A mistaken impression has gone abroad that mutton and lamb have been removed from the meat restrictions of meatless Tuesday. The Food Administration here today explained the situation in the following statement:

"An erroneous report was issued from Washington several days ago in which it was stated that mutton and lamb might be recognized as proper food on meatless Tuesday. The order really stated that only in the west might mutton and lamb be eaten on meatless Tuesday, and that the third day of the week must continue to be observed in the States east of the Mississippi (except Wisconsin and Indiana) until our savings of meat for export to the hungry men, women and children of the allied nations are sufficient to warrant a lifting of the restriction.

"Therefore, the people of Pennsylvania will please continue to observe Tuesday as an absolutely meatless day."

ATTEND FARM BUREAU MEETING

Clearfield people interested in farm production and desiring to hear of the trials and tribulations of the farmer, will do well to attend the Farm Bureau meeting in the county house tomorrow beginning at 10:30. F. P. Weaver of State College and other expert agriculturists will discuss intelligently many topics of interest to husbandry generally and the spectator will be well repaid for his attendance at this important meeting.

NO ATTEMPT MADE TO ENFORCE DOG LAW IN CLEARFIELD

Thus far County Treasurer Kline has issued thirty seven hundred dog license tags to Clearfield county residents which means that there are more than twenty three hundred pirate or vagabond dogs cavorting about the county with a price upon their heads.

The new law makes it obligatory on the part of the constables and police officers of the different districts to wage a war of extermination upon these dogs with a price upon their heads, but thus far the vagrant canine wanders at his own sweet will about our town unmolested and undismayed, while the doughty constables infest the town loafing places and with their feet upon the table or a convenient chair squirt tobacco juice at a far distant knot hole with unerring aim and assist in formulating plans to win the war.

The State Secretary of Agriculture promised to see that delinquent constables were promptly arrested and placed in "the stocks" so to speak, and we are heartily in favor of having him start right in here in Clearfield unless our peace guardians can be induced at once to carry out the mandates of the dog law and carry death and destruction into the ranks of the worthless, no account canines.

MADE GULICH TOWNSHIP ASSESSMENT

The County Commissioners had a busy time this morning as along with their other duties they were called upon to make the triennial assessment for Gulich township due to failure of the township assessor, making a satisfactory stagger at the job under the law.

HERTLING BOMBS TO PRESIDENT IN PEACE PLAN

Speaking in Reichstag yesterday Imperial German Chancellor Count von Hertling, made this declaration:

"I can fundamentally agree with the four principles which in President Wilson's view must be applied to a mutual exchange of views, and I declare with President Wilson that a general peace can be declared on such a basis."

"Only one reserve need be made in this connection: These principles must not only be proposed by the President of the United States, but must actually be recognized by all nations and peoples."

"But this goal has not yet been reached. There is still no basis of arbitration established by all the nations for the preservation of peace in the name of justice."

"When President Wilson incidentally says the German Chancellor is speaking to the tribunal of the world, I must decline this tribunal as prejudiced, joyfully as I would greet it, if an impartial court of arbitration existed, and gladly as I would cooperate to realize such ideals."

"Unfortunately, however, there is no trace of similar statements on the part of the leading powers of the world. England's war aims have been thoroughly 'insupportable' and she wants to impose on Germany according to England's good sense."

"When England 'sings' people's rights, she does not think of the principle of Ireland, Hungary, etc. 'It has been repeatedly said we do not contemplate a permanent state of war, but that we are engaged from the danger of a world war in peace and friendship, the object of our machinations. If, therefore, a proposal came from the 'opposing side,' for example, from the movement in Havre, we should not be in an antagonistic attitude, even though the discussion at first might not be unbinding."

"Meanwhile I readily admit that President Wilson's message of February 11 constitutes perhaps a small step toward a mutual rapprochement."

THEY ARE STILL AT IT

We noticed in last evening's Altoona Mirror that another Iowa-born Altoona old maid has responded to the wail of a "western man" from Clearfield and answered said western man's Macedonian cry through Mayor Charles F. Rhodes' official matrimonial bureau. The genial mayor very obligingly passed the scented mixture along as the following Mirror item will show:

"Mayor Charles Rhodes today received the eleventh letter in answer to the advertisement of the Clearfield man for a wife, this one being from a third party, who recommends a friend who has been a cook by profession and is wild to be an applicant."

THE WOMAN QUESTION

No, we do not propose to discuss the eternal feminine but rather the question of how the housewife is going to prepare wheatless and meatless meals. A great help is offered by the Bureau in what are called Bulletins No. 68 and 69. Be sure to get them. They will help you in your daily cooking problems.

Aerial mail service ought to fit right into the plans of the Post Office Department. The mail service is up in the air anyhow.

With meatless and wheatless days the lad of ten sees no good reason why he should not be patriotic by having a "soapless" day.

Several exchanges object to exempting men at present engaged in farm labor, saying that exemption for the purpose named does not insure the performance of farm labor. One suggests that these men be accepted for service and detailed to farm work, the government paying them their regular soldier's salary and the farmer assisted paying the difference between that and regular farm hand's pay. Might be a good idea at that.

NOBODY WANTS IT (?)

Judging by the care and trouble the Democrats are showing over their gubernatorial candidate the party is either sadly lacking in timber of the proper dimensions or else the growth of the prohibition sentiment has the leaders scared into quietude. At any rate the big pow-wow held in Philadelphia on Saturday and Sunday was entirely barren of results or action so far as agreeing on a man was concerned. Judging from the press accounts of the meeting the one hundred or more hand-picked delegates were almost afraid to make themselves heard on the state ticket for fear they would not be able to stand up with the one whom their national leader chose to support. Only twice did the speakers become excited and wax warm on a subject. First when it was decided that the candidate must be after the very image of Wilson, and second when a wild warhorse of the old party was brought in, when it was suggested that the Democratic party was as much as a political issue. The very mention of the word "war" brought forth a loud shouting and in like manner the mention of the word "peace" was a signal for loud shouting. Since the meeting a Mitchell Palmer and William B. Wilson notice that they would not suffer the fate of a Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania but there is a suspicion that the Democrats would not be the standard bearers. Joseph G. Campbell was for a day accorded the honor of being our candidate for governor but those Democrats who were old enough to remember "the olden days" were not so sure but that Mr. Campbell's ancestry might be detrimental to Democratic victory and certainly would not conduce to the desired harmony.

Oh the Democratic side of the fence it would appear that nobody wants the job of governor of this great commonwealth but appearances are not always what they seem and besides there is altogether too much political activity to verify the indifferent demeanor of the leaders.

MANY WANT IT (FACT)

While no big meeting of state leaders has been called by the Republican party to hand-pick a candidate to lead that party to victory on the state ticket this year, there are already two men announced and the announcement of the third is momentarily expected. The doings of the Republicans stands out in direct contrast to that of the Democrats this year. The different factions of the Republican party have gone ahead putting their candidates in the field with the widest liberty of thought, word and action.

Determination And Persistence

Success requires determination—the will to progress week by week and month by month.

The other factor is persistence—which insures continued progress.

Determination and persistence, in saving regularly a part of the income are necessary for every individual who would know success and prosperity.

Our Savings facilities are at the service of every resident of this community.

Every Democrat who has gubernatorial aspirations is holding back in mortal fear of not getting the O. K. of the big boss in Washington. Democrats who a few years ago took great glee in pointing to the bossism prevalent in the Republican party have only to look in their own mirror to see the image of their own political servitude. There never was a time when the rank and file of Republicans were in such a state of abject servility as the Democrats today. Even the smaller offices of the state have no candidates because the big boss has not let it be known who is to have his support in Pennsylvania.

Hon. J. Denny O'Neil and Hon. Robert P. Hapgood have announced as candidates for the office of governor on the Republican ticket. Neither candidate expects the endorsement of what are commonly called the "bosses" of the Republican party and yet the very fact that many of the prominent men of the state have endorsed these candidates shows that if there ever was a dominant or domineering element in the Republican party that element has to a certain extent lost its power. No doubt other men will announce their candidacies before the primary and it is noteworthy that each candidate is free to give expression to his own belief and principles. Not so with the Democrats. It was solemnly decided at the Philadelphia meeting that no candidate would be recognized who would not be for Woodrow Wilson, good or bad, thru thick and thin.

The rank and file of Republicans will decide who their candidate for governor will be. The decision will be made at the polls. It will come as a free expression by a free people of a free party. There will be a contest at the polls and every man will have his chance to select the state standard bearer. At this writing it seems as though the Democrats will be expected to walk up to the polls and vote for only one candidate for governor and that man will have been selected by the state leaders getting their credentials from Washington. Looks like real democracy, doesn't it?

FIGHT TO MAKE N.Y. DRY STARTS TODAY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The first skirmish in the fight to put New York in the dry column will occur here tomorrow, when the Assembly Judiciary Committee will give a public hearing on the Hill-McNab resolution calling for ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment by the New York legislature. William J. Bryan and several other noted advocates of prohibition have signified their intention to attend the hearings and speak in behalf of the ratification of the Federal amendment.

Indications are not lacking that the hearings may develop into a lively session. Recently charges have been freely made that politics in this State is attempting to make a fool of national prohibition. Advocates of the Federal prohibition amendment were surprised at the early date fixed for beginning the public hearings before the Assembly Judiciary Committee. The Anti-Saloon League has openly charged that Speaker Sweet, who announced the date for the hearings, has gubernatorial ambitions, and called the hearing as early as possible in an attempt to turn down the Federal amendment, still leaving time to send through a State prohibition amendment. This, it is charged, would give the Speaker a "temperance" record against Governor Whitman, who would be expected to veto any attempt to delay ratification by referring the Federal amendment to the people, whereas a State amendment resolution could go through without reference to him.

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges Everyone to drink glass of hot water before breakfast

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ash, so food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left over waste, toxins and poison-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

STORY-TELLERS EMPHASIZE FOOD-SAVING POINT

A corps of library story-tellers, working with the Federal Food Administrator in Providence, R. I., recently visited 25 Sunday schools in that city, suggesting through stories ways in which children could help save food. Dearth of food in warring countries was visualized by the true Belgian story of a prize of lard. Aesop's story of the bundle of sticks was used to illustrate the need for "all together" in food saving. Other story motives turned "on eating of bread crusts, wasting no pennies, saving sugar by eating less candy and ice cream and by not eating between meals, and learning to say, "I like" instead of "I don't like". The following "Child's No-Waste Pledge" was also used:

"I pledge my allegiance to my flag, I serve true I will not lag, I'll not despise my crusts or bread, Nor make complaint, whatever fed; On wheatless days I'll eat no wheat, On other days eat less of sweet; I'll waste no pennies, spoil no clothes, And so I'll battle 'gainst our foes. No slacker I, but a soldier keen, To do my best in the year eighteen."

WRITE THAT LETTER NOW

While the details are fresh in your mind. While you are thinking you may as well be putting your thoughts into words, words which will, on paper, represent your keenest thoughts.

While you open your morning mail your mind frames the reply you are going to make to each letter but your stenographer is busy filing papers or attending to some other duty. Results: When your stenographer does reach your desk you too are burdened with the detail of the day's work.

THE DICTAPHONE

Will solve your problem. It will be waiting for your entrance every morning. You open a letter, frame your reply, press a little electric button and the next instant you are putting into words your thoughts when you read the letter. Some prefer and get better speed by looking over all their correspondence and then dictating to the machine. The method to be used by you depends on the nature of your business.

ALWAYS READY

Many times when you are sitting at your desk, which should be equipped with a Dictaphone, you find yourself with a new idea for one of those things that you have been thinking about for some time. These ideas, however, are so insignificant that you hesitate to call your stenographer to record the thought. Would it not be simple to simply switch on the power, tell it to the Dictaphone and have that thought preserved?

SAVES TIME FOR ALL

You appreciate the fact that detail has multiplied many times in your office these war times. Filing of papers has become a problem. Writing letters has become a secondary job with your stenographer because other duties take so much of his or her time. You can see at a glance how a Dictaphone can save very much of your time and more of the clerk's you employ. The time saved can be utilized in other kinds of work and perhaps the acquisition of a Dictaphone will make additional clerks unnecessary.

SEE IT WORK

Yes, there are many Dictaphones at work in Clearfield now. This little machine aims to save you time. Will you let us tell you about it and show it to you. We want only to show you how it works. We will not pestle you with return visits unless you desire it. For further information, drop a line to The Dictaphone Man, c/o The Progress, Clearfield, Pa.

FOOD RATIONS WILL RESULT IN STRONG NATIONAL RACES

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 19.—While epilepsy and insanity will follow in the wake of the starvation that is slowly strangling Germany, food rationing is building a sturdy and healthy people in England, France and America.

This was the opinion today of Prof. H. H. Haddock, noted Russian scientist, head of the Division of Physical Anthropology of the Smithsonian Institution here, who is a championing a study of the effects of the world food shortage.

"Malnutrition has so weakened the resistance of the German people," Prof. Haddock said, "that it may take a century before the unfortunates and disease-stricken people can be restored to their former soundness of health."

"The facts are being hidden from the world; but alarming reports by German scientists are known to be in the hands of the Imperial government."

"The continued malnutrition has brought widespread gastro-intestinal disorders and increased infant mortality to an alarming point."

"Only the soldiers in the trenches, government officials and the more affluent classes are receiving sufficient food. The bulk of the people are exposed to a complication of diseases which will leave their traces for generations to come."

"Food rationing among the allies and in America, on the other hand, will only prevent over-eating and build a healthy and sturdy race."

German newspapers reaching the outside world, Prof. Haddock said, indicate the German internal condition.

"Reading of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung gives the impression one person of every three in the empire is suffering from dysentery."

"An alarming increase in deaths from phthisis in Berlin, as shown by reports of the Berlin Statistical Bureau. Pneumonia deaths also have increased, as have those from pleurisy. Official German report, reaching here have placed the figures for these increases at: phthisis, 56 per cent; pneumonia, 62 per cent; other lung diseases, 77 per cent."

"As to infant mortality," states the Vossische, "the rate is unusually high this year in Berlin. It is true that the actual number of deaths is below that of recent years, but this is explained by the extraordinary decline in births. Proportionately, the number of infant deaths is considerably more unfavorable this year than last."

"NERVOUSNESS IS GONE," HE SAYS

Joe Kindig was Suffering from Stomach Trouble, Too

"I can't begin to tell you how much good Tanlac has done me," said Joseph D. Dindig, of 352 Ok Lane, York, Pa.

"I was in a miserable condition. I was so nervous that I could hardly work, and this had made my stomach so bad I couldn't eat enough to keep strong."

"I felt weak and tired all the time, but I had no appetite, food didn't appeal to me and when I would force myself to swallow a little just to keep distress afterward. I would fill up with gas until I felt like a balloon and would belch it up in great quantities."

One day I read about Tanlac in the newspaper, where it told how another man regained his health.

"So I got a bottle, and I can't express my delight when I found it was doing me good."

"All that nervousness and tired, weak feeling have gone away. My appetite has come back and I can eat and enjoy my meals without a bit of distress afterward. I don't hesitate to recommend Tanlac for it certainly cured me."

Tanlac, the famous vegetable food, is now sold here by Woodward & McPherson.

THIS WILL MAKE MILLIONS HAPPY

Any corn will dry up and lift out.

Says a Cincinnati authority. Let folks step on your feet here after wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is said to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.

CONSPICUOUS DEED OF BRAVERY SHOWN BY FRENCH POLI

By W. S. Forrest

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The French Armies In The Field, Jan. 16. (By Mail.)—Inspiring heroism which sets an example for any soldier is the story of the French Adjutant Joseph Edward Garnier.

Garnier was of a regiment of infantry which fought its way into a German position in the Wood of Chevreux and held its ground against numerous counter-attacks. The following day after a continuous battle of hand grenades and rifles, the first line needed ammunition. The route to the munition depots was swept by German machine guns and sniper's bullets.

Garnier volunteered and started with a group of twelve men. Ten steps and four men fell. Halfway no one remained but Garnier. He escaped unharmful, reached the depots and again traversed the fire swept route with all the grenades and cartridges he could carry. Without a word he started back. The Germans, enraged by his audacity, concentrated their fire on Garnier but again no miraculously reached the depots in safety.

Here he organized a new group of volunteers. Inspired by his marvelous sangfroid, all wanted to follow him back to the first line. But choosing a number necessary to carry enough munitions back to last through the night he ordered his followers forward. A short distance and Garnier fell fatally wounded.

An Army citation, unique for its words of praise, told the story of Garnier's bravery.

Dr. F. D. Leibold, dentist, will be absent from his office until Monday, March 4th. F25-6tc

DRINKING AMONG SCHOOLBOYS.

Some time ago a schoolmaster of Cologne, astonished at the poor work done on Mondays by the 54 boys in his class, questioned them as to the manner in which Sunday had been spent. He learned that 19 had spent the evening before in some cafe or beer garden, that 20 had taken wine, 24 beer and 19 brandy; 17 had had both wine and beer, 14 had had wine, beer and brandy, ten had been very tipsy and eight had been napped. Doctor Boyer of Vienna requested a certain number of school directors to divide their 591 pupils into three categories: Good, adequate and inadequate. Then, with their aid, he divided these into five classes: (1) Those to whom alcoholic drinks were unknown; (2) those who drank occasionally; (3) those who drank beer once a day; (4) those who drank it twice daily; (5) those who drank it thrice. The results were as follows:

Good	Adequate	Inadequate
Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
1.....41.8	49.2	9.0
2.....34.1	56.6	9.5
3.....27.8	58.4	18.7
4.....24.9	57.7	18.3
5.....24.9	38.3	36.8

Whence the conclusion that the water-drinker is almost always at least among the adequate, if not among the good, scholars.

THE NATIONAL AMENDMENT.

"If the proposed amendment should be adopted by three-fourths of the states," says United States Senator Sheppard, speaking of national prohibition, "the traffic in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes would be forbidden anywhere within the American republic. Prohibition would be imbedded in the organic law of the nation. Is it not time that the federal government, the largest social unit we have, should take a hand when the traffic in a poisonous drug is taking from the earnings of the American people six times as much as they expend for bread, ten times as much as they expend for furniture, and twice as much as they expend for clothing? As I view the matter," concluded Senator Sheppard, "the member of either branch of the American congress who denies the power of amendment to the states, especially an amendment which vast numbers of the people desire the states to consider, violates the basic principles both of the constitution and of popular government, repudiates the fundamental rights of the states and overturns the two most sacred privileges of referendum and of initiative."

The man who is not willing that the question of national prohibition be submitted to a poll of the states is not traveling the path of safe democracy.

SUPREME MILITARY NECESSITY.

"If we are to pour out our money and blood we must insist that we shall have a fair return for the price we pay. How can it be done? Only in one way that is big enough to be named in the same breath with Europe's gain—the abolition of the liquor traffic! By nation-wide, bone-dry, rock-ribbed, bomb-proof, never-leak prohibition as the largest possible military preparation and the only adequate compensation for the price we pay. Immediate prohibition is a supreme military necessity, and would mean victory against any nation that remains in partnership with rum. I do not tremble for my country, I do not fear the ultimate result, however long drawn out the conflict; but national prohibition would make assurance doubly sure, accelerate the victory, work blessings upon all hardships upon none, and pay dividends for eternity when peace shall come. National constitutional prohibition is our one salvation."—Clinton N. Howard.

IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

The first Monday after the dry law went into effect in the District of Columbia, Judge Muldowny remarked from the bench: "Just think of it! Monday morning docket usually contained the names of from 40 to 50 persons who had been arrested for intoxication. Today we have two or three persons charged with that offense. It is hard to conceive that such a great change could be brought about in so short a time."

Called the Bluff

By F. A. MITCHELL

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

When a nation becomes notable for any intellectual achievement the faculty that achieves seems to be inborn in the race. The German race is remarkable for scientific development. This story shows how an uneducated German was willing to suffer imprisonment to test the efficacy of a scientific device.

Herman Gottlieb was suspected of stealing corn from a neighbor's garden. Whether he was really guilty the owner of the garden did not know, but Gottlieb lived near his property and was the only person who did live near it. Besides he was very poor and found it difficult to feed eight or nine children with capacious stomachs. The deprecations on the garden continued and the owner decided to make an example of some one, so he pounced upon Gottlieb, had him arrested under the specific charge of stealing a number of ears of corn before daylight on the morning of the arrest. That the prisoner might not be unjustly detained, the trial was set for ten o'clock the day of the arrest.

After the preliminary questions had been put the prosecuting attorney made several attempts to trick the accused man into incriminating himself, but without success. Finally the prosecutor undertook to catch him in a scientific trap.

"Did you ever hear of the X-ray?" he asked Gottlieb.

"No, I never heard about dot; what is dot?"

The prosecutor was taken flat aback. How to tell an ignorant man the nature of the X-ray was a poser. The judge, seeing his discomfiture, smiled.

"The X-ray is a very bright light—so bright that it enables one to look inside of a man. The machine, or we call it lamp, that emits the ray was invented by a countryman of yours."

"A Sherman?" asked the prisoner.

"Yes, a German. His name was Roentgen. The X-ray is sometimes called the Roentgen ray."

Herman seemed interested. The lawyer proceeded.

"This machine is now used by surgeons to locate a bullet that is lodged inside a man. If you had swallowed a nail it could be seen in your stomach by means of this instrument."

"Got in Mimmel! Dot machine was invented in Sherman?"

"Yes, it was made in Germany; but I'm going to use it in America. I'm going to bring one of them into the court and look into your stomach with it."

"Vot you do dot for?"

"To prove that you ate corn for breakfast this morning."

"Vot dot machine show corn in my stomach?" asked the prisoner, seemingly more interested in the machine than that it might prove him guilty.

"If you robbed the cornfield as charged, you undoubtedly ate the fruits of your robbery for breakfast and the Roentgen lamp will show it in your stomach."

"Mein Gott! vot a machine!"

"Now, Gottlieb, if you will plead guilty I will ask his honor to give you a light sentence."

The prisoner appeared to be lost in thought. The prosecutor, thinking that he had not heard the question, repeated it. Then suddenly Gottlieb called the bluff.

"Bring on dot machine."

By this time the judge, the court and the spectators were on the tiptoe of expectation of an amusing scene. The prosecutor assumed a severe air and, calling an attendant, sent him for an electric lamp. The prisoner was so intent upon it that he did not see the smiles of those present.

"Prisoner," said the prosecuting attorney with great severity, "will you plead guilty and take a light sentence or suffer the full penalty of the law if I find corn in your stomach?"

Herman's face assumed an expression of a struggle within him. The court was led to believe that he dreaded exposure from the Roentgen ray but doubted its efficacy. Finally he turned to the judge and said:

"Vot hastenest you gif me if he find dot corn in my stomach?"

"Ten days in jail."

The prisoner looked again at the electric lamp, which the prosecutor was flashing for the purpose of terrifying him.

"Ferry well, I go to jail; but I won't confess dot I was guilty."

There was nothing for the attorney to do but carry out his purpose; he flashed the lamp against the prisoner's stomach and feigned to examine it with a reading glass.

"There it is," he said. "You must have eaten a dozen ears." Then turning to the judge, he added: "Having proved the prisoner guilty, your honor, it remains for you to pass sentence upon him. And on account of his persistence in denying his guilt I urge that you make it all that the law allows."

Repressing his laughter, the judge said:

"Prisoner stand up."

The prisoner rose.

"Have you anything to say why I should not pass sentence upon you?"

"Yes, juteh. Dot machine was never made in Sherman in de world. It is a humbug and don't tell de truth. All I had for breakfast dis morning was a dish of sauerkraut."

There was an explosion in the courtroom, the only official word spoken being, "Case dismissed."

"Gets-It" Makes Corns Come Off the "Banana-Peel" Way

Why have to flop on the floor, squeeze yourself up like the letter "Z" and with bulging eyes draw your face up into a wrinkly knot while you gouge and pull at the "quick" of a tender corn? That's the old, savage way. "Gets-It" is the modern, pain

FIGHTER OF FRONTIER AND FRONT PROMOTED IN BRITISH RECRUITING

These Came Back From No Man's Land.

A background of intrepid service not only in the bitter fighting in France but before the war in the Royal North West Mounted Police, was related by officers of the British Canadian Recruiting Mission as reason for the promotion to command to the Western Division, of Major A. Wallace Owen. He was one of the men of the Royal West Mounted Police detailed to hold the grizzly trail of the Klondike in the Alaska gold rush.

Major Owen saw the bitterest fighting at Ypres, the Somme, Vim Ridge and Messines. He was in the thick of fighting during which 150 officers who came to his battalion were killed or wounded. From the day when he was given command of his company in the "Bloody Ypres" which followed, the then Captain Owen led a charmed life as he never received more than a trivial wound, notwithstanding officer after officer assigned to serve with him, was carried back dead or wounded. Time after time he went over the top in attacks on the German trenches.

Deplete the great scarcity of print paper in Germany, recent issues of British parliament adds about 8,000,000 to the electorate, of whom 6,000,000 are women over 30 years of age. It is believed that the women will constitute about two-fifths of the whole number of voters.

CONTINGENT FOR CAMP LEE ON WAY SOUTH

Twenty-seven Stalwart Defenders Entrain At 3.45 For The Long Trip South

DENT B. HOLDEN IN CHARGE

The farewell service for the Camp Lee boys was held in the Court room at 2 o'clock. The contingent met in Exemption Board headquarters at 1.30 and after Dent B. Holden, of Clearfield, had been named as Captain, Chief Clerk Bain read the boys their final instructions.

Each man was given a sweater, Red Cross kit, lunch box and other necessary equipment, following which they were formed in line and the march to the Court House begun.

When the Court room was reached the men were grouped inside the rail and President Woodward of the Committee of Public Safety called the assembly to order and introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. John P. McCurdy. Mr. McCurdy delivered an eloquent farewell. He pointed out to the boys the herculean task they were about to engage in and bade them go into the fray with the true American spirit and with clean minds and clean bodies. Rev. McCurdy's address was inspiring and met with the sincere appreciation of the soldier boys.

Mr. McCurdy was the only speaker and at the close of his remarks the march to the station was begun and when the 3.45 train arrived the thirty-two soldier lads swung aboard and the train departed amid the cheers of the several thousand people assembled.

Mike Withura, of Ramey, one of the contingent to leave for Camp Lee today had short shrift between registration and being called for service. Mike claimed to have been working in the timber woods of Michigan on registration day, June 10, 1917, and as he did not know anything about it failed to register. He is 24 years of age and an American-born Slav. When he came back home to Ramey recently the constable there discovered that Mike had neglected his duty as an American citizen and when he failed to produce a registration card on demand, took him into custody and landed him in Fort Gorman, where he has been engaged with the other prisoners for the past few days diving for the occasional bean in the soup.

Yesterday Chief Clerk John M. Bain had Mike brought up from jail and Dr. Stewart, President of the Exemption Board, examined him and found him a fit specimen for military service and he was placed on the list of those going to Camp Lee today. Mike's being the first case of the kind to come before the board.

Withura said he was willing now to do his duty and stopped with the other out of town boys at The Windsor last night. He was promptly on deck this morning and professes to like his new job alright.

Following is a list of the names of Uncle Sam's Liberty Soldiers who left Clearfield county yesterday and today for Camp Lee:

DEITRICK WANTS ALL PROGRESSIVES TO BE REPUBLICANS

"In a symposium upon candidates and issues, I am safe in making the following summary and declaring it to represent the progressive sentiment of the state:

"FIRST—As a matter of practical politics all the progressives of the state should enroll in the Republican primaries this spring.

"SECOND—A very large percentage, in fact practically all progressives, demand that Pennsylvania ratify the national prohibition amendment. I might say here parenthetically that there were many who were progressives in 1912, who are now opposed to prohibition, but their number is small and their influence slight. A present effort to build sentiment among progressives on the part of the old stand-pat crowd is meeting response only from the friends of 'booze.'

"THIRD—The progressives demand that the social legislation placed on the statute books during the administration of Governor Brumbaugh be maintained in full strength and be supplemented by additional legislation, providing for old age pensions, health insurance, etc.

"FOURTH—The progressives demand that the government of Pennsylvania shall be in the hands of men who are keenly alive to the nation's needs in this supreme crisis in the world's history, men who know and appreciate the sentiments of the common people and who have a broad grasp upon affairs, so that in the great work of reconstruction, which must follow this war, Pennsylvania shall maintain its proud position as the 'Keystone State.'

"FIFTH—As to the candidacies of individuals already mentioned for state office, I find little dissent, in fact, a practically unanimous sentiment, in favor of J. Denny O'Neil for governor.

"The progressives exercising their citizenship through the medium of the Republican party will be such a factory in the forthcoming campaign as to astonish and flabbergast those old stand-patters who have failed to awaken to the fact that the world is rapidly moving away from them and that they belong to things archaic."

SEAGULLS REVEAL MINE

London, Feb. 23.—By Mail—"Seagulls Save Ship" might be the headline for this story. A pilot off the southeast coast saw a number of the birds clustered on top of the water directly on the ships course. The peculiar formation in which they were hunched led him to take a look with his glass and he saw they were sitting on a floating mine, one bird on each contact prong. A twitch of the wheel and the vessel passed safely by.

A few hundred yards past the ship fired a shot over the mine to scare off the birds. A second shot, and the ocean was rid of the menace.

JEWISH FEAST OF PURITY WILL START THIS EVENING

New York, Feb. 26.—The celebration of the Jewish feast of Purim begins at sunset this evening, and will continue until sunset tomorrow evening.

It is primarily a joyous celebration, and is entirely peculiar in tone, consisting of merry-making and feasting, of making gifts to friends and relatives and the giving of "shalach-monos," or gifts, to the poor is especially enjoined.

The feast of Purim is the most popular of all feasts among the Jews and for a long time held high prominence for the spirit of revelry and boisterous merrymaking which attended it. In bygone ages, when ghetto walls enclosed their settlements, it was one of the rare occasions when the heavy gloom that weighed upon them was relieved by the historic lesson that Israel's enemies were always in the end defeated and punished. It is an historic fact that Purim was never more joyously celebrated than in periods of persecution.

The celebration of Purim is based upon the events recorded in the book of Esther, which tells the story of the plot of Haman to exterminate the Persian Jews in the reign of Xerxes and their deliverance through the efforts of Mordecai and Esther. The story is one of the most remarkable in the Old Testament and in the perfect cast of characters presented, as well as in the harmonious sequence of its events, exhibits a dramatic unity which makes it comparable to a play of Shakespeare.

The higher critics have declared it a historical romance and refused to give it a place in the annals of established historical events. One curious fact is that the author makes no mention whatever of the name of God, and for that reason the Jews themselves have questioned its right to be included among canonical books of the Bible.

GRASS FLAT HOLDS UNIQUE RED CROSS SCHOOL FESTIVAL

The public schools of Grassflat took part in the Junior Red Cross drive and as a result rounded up a large number of new members.

At the Grammar school, part of Friday afternoon was given over to the proper celebration of the event. First, several patriotic songs were sung; then the "Story of the Red Cross" was read. Following this, all the members formed in line and each member, as he passed by the large Red Cross poster, posted one of the small red crosses on it. This was a very pleasing part of the program and very much enjoyed by all. When all were again seated some one very unexpectedly—to the teacher at least—called for three cheers for the Red Cross, and to be sure the Red Cross got three as hearty cheers as it is likely to get in this country, or anywhere else for that matter.

The program ended with a few remarks by the teacher followed by the singing of America, the song which thrills every true American and makes him feel more than ever that we must win this war and thus preserve our institutions and the freedom of our beloved country.

STATE LEAGUE WILL ENFORCE THE DRY LAW

Manufacturers And Business Men Of New Hampshire Will Back Up The Dry Law

WILL FIGHT ALL INFRACTIONS

Concord, N. H., Feb. 26.—To make prohibition effective when it becomes operative in New Hampshire next May, leading manufacturers and business men from all sections of the state have been called to a conference to be held at the state house in this city tomorrow. The New Hampshire Anti-Saloon league, which took the initiative in calling the conference, has received assurance that some one representing practically every industry and occupation will be present, in addition to Governor Keyes and other state officials.

The idea of the conference will be to present to the business and commercial interests this question: Shall farmers, who will do well to attend the New Hampshire have real prohibition? Officials of the Anti-Saloon league have collected from several prohibited states a mass of testimony from employers of labor and other leading men in industry regarding the good effects of prohibition upon their business.

New Hampshire had a prohibitory law previous to 1903 but it was not enforced, and the general public, disgusted with a prohibition that did not prohibit, repealed the law and adopted local option. Last year the local option law was repealed and a bone-dry prohibitory law, said to be one of the strictest laws of its kind in the country, was enacted. To maintain the law against the campaign that is already under way to repeal it, the Anti-Saloon league believes a vigorous enforcement is necessary and this enforcement can only come through efficient public officers backed by strong sentiment.

Proximity of licensed saloons in Massachusetts cities to the southern part of this state will be an obstacle to proper law enforcement. It is expected that liquor will be carried over the state line in automobiles unless officials are alert. The law provides for the appointment by the governor of an official whose duty will be to enforce the law and who will have great authority in doing so.

AVIATOR SHOOTS EAGLES

MUTTON AND LAMB NOT ALLOWABLE ON MEATLESS DAY

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—A mistaken impression has gone abroad that mutton and lamb have been removed from the meat restrictions of meatless Tuesday. The Food Administration here today explained the situation in the following statement:

"An erroneous report was issued from Washington several days ago in which it was stated that mutton and lamb might be recognized as proper food on meatless Tuesday. The order really stated that only in the west might mutton and lamb be eaten on meatless Tuesday, and that the third day of the week must continue to be observed in the States east of the Mississippi (except Wisconsin and Indiana) until our savings of meat for export to the hungry men, women and children of the allied nations are sufficient to warrant a lifting of the restriction.

"Therefore, the people of Pennsylvania will please continue to observe Tuesday as an absolutely meatless day."

Weaver of State College and other expert agriculturalists will discuss intelligently many topics of interest to husbandry generally and the spectator will be well repaid for his attendance at this important meeting.

NO ATTEMPT MADE TO ENFORCE DOG LAW IN CLEARFIELD

Thus far County Treasurer Kline has issued thirty seven hundred dog license tags to Clearfield county residents which means that there are more than twenty three hundred pirate or vagabond dogs cavorting about the county with a price upon their heads.

The new law makes it obligatory on the part of the constables and police officers of the different districts to wage a war of extermination upon these dogs with a price upon their heads, but thus far the vagrant canine wanders at his own sweet will about our town unmolested and undismayed, while the doughty constables infest the town loafing places and with their feet upon the table or a convenient chair squirt tobacco juice at a far distant knot hole with unerring aim and assist in formulating plans to win the war.

The State Secretary of Agriculture promised to see that delinquent constables were promptly arrested and placed in "the stocks" so to speak, and we are heartily in favor of having him start right in here in Clearfield unless our peace guardians can be induced at once to carry out the mandates of the dog law and carry death and destruction into the ranks of the worthless, no account canines.

MADE GULICH TOWNSHIP ASSESSMENT

The County Commissioners had a busy time this morning as along with their other duties they were called upon to make the triennial assessment for Gulich township due to failure of the township assessor, making a satisfactory stagger at the job under the law.

HERTLING BOMBS TO PRESIDENT IN PEACE PLAN

Speaking in Reichstag yesterday Imperial German Chancellor Count von Hertling, made this declaration:

"I can fundamentally agree with the four principles which in President Wilson's view must be applied to a mutual exchange of views, and I declare with President Wilson that a general peace can be declared on such a basis."

"Only one reserve need be made in this connection: These principles must not only be proposed by the President of the United States, but must actually be recognized by all nations and peoples."

"But this goal has not yet been reached. There is still no basis of arbitration established by all the nations for the preservation of peace in the name of justice."

"When President Wilson incidentally says the German Chancellor is speaking to the tribunal of the world, I must decline this tribunal as prejudiced, joyfully as I would greet it, if an impartial court of arbitration existed, and gladly as I would cooperate to realize such ideals."

"Unfortunately, however, there is no trace of similar statements on the part of the leading powers of the world. England's war aims have been thoroughly 'inspired' and she wants to impose on Germany, according to England's good sense."

"When England 'inspires' people's rights, she does not think of the principle of Ireland, Hungary, etc. It has been repeatedly said we do not contemplate territorial gains; but that we should be satisfied from the danger of a world war in peace and friendship between the object or jumping off ground of our machinations. If, therefore, a proposal came from the 'inspired' side, for example, from the movement in Havre, we should not be in an antagonistic attitude, even though the discussion at first might not be unbinding."

"Meanwhile I readily admit that President Wilson's message of February 11 constitutes perhaps a small step toward a mutual rapprochement."

THEY ARE STILL AT IT

We noticed in last evening's Altoona Mirror that another Iowa-born Altoona old maid has responded to the wail of a "western man" from Clearfield and answered said western man's Macedonian cry through Mayor Charles F. Rhodes' official matrimonial bureau. The genial mayor very obligingly passed the scented mixture along as the following Mirror item will show:

"Mayor Charles Rhodes today received the eleventh letter in answer to the advertisement of the Clearfield man for a wife, this one being from a third party, who recommends a friend who has been a cook by profession and is wild to be an applicant."

THE WOMAN QUESTION

No, we do not propose to discuss the eternal feminine but rather the question of how the housewife is going to prepare wheatless and meatless meals. A great help is offered by the Farm Bureau in what are called Bulletins No. 68 and 69. Be sure to get them. They will help you in your daily cooking problems.

Aerial mail service ought to fit right into the plans of the Post Office Department. The mail service is up in the air anyhow.

With meatless and wheatless days the lad of ten sees no good reason why he should not be patriotic by having a "soapless" day.

Several exchanges object to exempting men at present engaged in farm labor, saying that exemption for the purpose named does not insure the performance of farm labor. One suggests that these men be accepted for service and detailed to farm work, the government paying them their regular soldier's salary and the farmer assisted paying the difference between that and regular farm hand's pay. Might be a good idea at that.

Nobody Wants It (?)

Judging by the care and trouble the Democrats are showing over their gubernatorial candidate the party is either sadly lacking in timber of the proper dimensions or else the growth of the prohibition sentiment has the leaders scared into quietude. At any rate the big pow-wow held in Philadelphia on Saturday and Sunday was entirely barren of results or action so far as agreeing on a man was concerned. Judging from the press accounts of the meeting the one hundred or more hand-picked delegates were almost afraid to make themselves heard on the state ticket for fear of being labeled as the "prohibition" man. With the one whom their national leader chose to support. Only twice did the speakers become agitated and wax warm on a subject. First when it was decided that the candidate must be after the very image of Wilson, and second when a wild warhorse of the old party was brought in, who it was suggested, that the Democratic party was in a position as a political issue. The very mention of the word "prohibition" set the crowd shouting and in like manner the men of the Democratic side were a signal for loud shouting. Since the meeting a Mitchell Palmer and William B. Wilson notice that they would not suffer the fate of a Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania but there is a suspicion that the Democrats would not be the standard bearers. Joseph Gurney of Pittsburgh was for a day accorded the honor of being our candidate for governor but those Democrats who were old enough to remember "the olden days" were not so sure but that Mr. Gurney's ancestry might be detrimental to Democratic victory and certainly would not conduce to the desired harmony.

Oh the Democratic side of the fence it would appear that nobody wants the job of governor of this great commonwealth but appearances are not always what they seem and besides there is altogether too much political activity to verify the indifferent demeanor of the leaders.

MANY WANT IT (FACT)

While no big meeting of state leaders has been called by the Republican party to hand-pick a candidate to lead that party to victory on the state ticket this year, there are already two men announced and the announcement of the third is momentarily expected. The doings of the Republicans stands out in direct contrast to that of the Democrats this year. The different factions of the Republican party have gone ahead putting their candidates in the field with the widest liberty of thought, word and action.

Determination And Persistence

Success requires determination—the will to progress week by week and month by month.

The other factor is persistence—which insures continued progress.

Determination and persistence, in saving regularly a part of the income are necessary for every individual who would know success and prosperity.

Our Savings facilities are at the service of every resident of this community.

Every Democrat who has gubernatorial aspirations is holding back in mortal fear of not getting the O. K. of the big boss in Washington. Democrats who a few years ago took great glee in pointing to the bossism prevalent in the Republican party have only to look in their own mirror to see the image of their own political servitude. There never was a time when the rank and file of Republicans were in such a state of abject servility as the Democrats today. Even the smaller offices of the state have no candidates because the big boss has not let it be known who is to have his support in Pennsylvania.

Hon. J. Denny O'Neil and Hon. Robert P. Hapgood have announced as candidates for the office of governor on the Republican ticket. Neither candidate expects the endorsement of what are commonly called the "bosses" of the Republican party and yet the very fact that many of the prominent men of the state have endorsed these candidates shows that if there ever was a dominant or domineering element in the Republican party that element has to a certain extent lost its power. No doubt other men will announce their candidacies before the primary and it is noteworthy that each candidate is free to give expression to his own belief and principles. Not so with the Democrats. It was solemnly decided at the Philadelphia meeting that no candidate would be recognized who would not be for Woodrow Wilson, good or bad, thru thick and thin.

The rank and file of Republicans will decide who their candidate for governor will be. The decision will be made at the polls. It will come as a free expression by a free people of a free party. There will be a contest at the polls and every man will have his chance to select the state standard bearer. At this writing it seems as though the Democrats will be expected to walk up to the polls and vote for only one candidate for governor and that man will have been selected by the state leaders getting their credentials from Washington. Looks like real democracy, doesn't it?

FIGHT TO MAKE N.Y. DRY STARTS TODAY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The first skirmish in the fight to put New York in the dry column will occur here tomorrow, when the Assembly Judiciary Committee will give a public hearing on the Hill-McNab resolution calling for ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment by the New York legislature. William J. Bryan and several other noted advocates of prohibition have signified their intention to attend the hearings and speak in behalf of the ratification of the Federal amendment.

Indications are not lacking that the hearings may develop into a lively session. Recently charges have been freely made that politics in this State is attempting to make a fool of national prohibition. Advocates of the Federal prohibition amendment were surprised at the early date fixed for beginning the public hearings before the Assembly Judiciary Committee. The Anti-Saloon League has openly charged that Speaker Sweet, who announced the date for the hearings, has gubernatorial ambitions, and called the hearing as early as possible in an attempt to turn down the Federal amendment, still leaving time to send through a State prohibition amendment. This, it is charged, would give the Speaker a "temperance" record against Governor Whitman, who would be expected to veto any attempt to delay ratification by referring the Federal amendment to the people, whereas a State amendment resolution could go through without reference to him.

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges Everyone to drink glass of hot water before breakfast

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incalculable material in the form of ash, so food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left over waste, toxins and poison-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

STORY-TELLERS EMPHASIZE FOOD-SAVING POINT

A corps of library story-tellers, working with the Federal Food Administrator in Providence, R. I., recently visited 25 Sunday schools in that city, suggesting through stories ways in which children could help save food. Dearth of food in warring countries was visualized by the true Belgian story of a prize of land. Aesop's story of the bundle of sticks was used to illustrate the need for "all together" in food saving. Other story motives turned "on eating of bread crusts, wasting no pennies, saving sugar by eating less candy and ice cream and by not eating between meals, and learning to say, "I like" instead of "I don't like". The following "Child's No-Waste Pledge" was also used:

"I pledge my allegiance to my flag, I serve true I will not lag, I'll not despise my crusts or bread, Nor make complaint, whatever fed; On wheatless days I'll eat no wheat, On other days eat less of sweet; I'll waste no pennies, spoil no clothes, And so I'll battle 'gainst our foes. No slacker I, but a soldier keen, To do my best in the year eighteen."

WRITE THAT LETTER NOW

While the details are fresh in your mind. While you are thinking you may as well be putting your thoughts into words, words which will, on paper, represent your keenest thoughts.

While you open your morning mail your mind frames the reply you are going to make to each letter but your stenographer is busy filing papers or attending to some other duty. Results: When your stenographer does reach your desk you too are burdened with the detail of the day's work.

THE DICTAPHONE

Will solve your problem. It will be waiting for your entrance every morning. You open a letter, frame your reply, press a little electric button and the next instant you are putting into words your thoughts when you read the letter. Some prefer and get better speed by looking over all their correspondence and then dictating to the machine. The method to be used by you depends on the nature of your business.

ALWAYS READY

Many times a letter comes to you while sitting at your desk which should be answered. A new idea for one of those things under your arm, all those happy thoughts, but appear insignificant. You hesitate to call your stenographer to record the thought. Would it not be simple to simply switch on the power, tell it to the Dictaphone and have that thought preserved?

SAVES TIME FOR ALL

You appreciate the fact that detail has multiplied many times in your office these war times. Filing of papers has become a problem. Writing letters has become a secondary job with your stenographer because other duties take so much of his or her time. You can see at a glance how a Dictaphone can save very much of your time and more of the clerk's you employ. The time saved can be utilized in other kinds of work and perhaps the acquisition of a Dictaphone will make additional clerks unnecessary.

SEE IT WORK

Yes, there are many Dictaphones at work in Clearfield now. This little machine aims to save you time. Will you let us tell you about it and show it to you. We want only to show you how it works. We will not pester you with return visits unless you desire it. For further information, drop a line to The Dictaphone Man, c/o The Progress, Clearfield, Pa.

FOOD RATIONS WILL RESULT IN STRONG NATIONAL RACES

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 19.—While epilepsy and insanity will follow in the wake of the starvation that is slowly strangling Germany, food rationing is building a sturdy and healthy people in England, France and America.

This was the opinion today of Prof. Hadlicks, noted Russian scientist, head of the Division of Physical Anthropology of the Smithsonian Institute here, who is conducting a study of the effects of the world food shortage.

"Malnutrition has so weakened the resistance of the German people," Prof. Hadlicks said, "that it may take a century before the undernourished and disease-stricken people can be restored to their former soundness of health."

"The facts are being hidden from the world; but alarming reports by German scientists are known to be in the hands of the Imperial government."

"The continued malnutrition has brought widespread gastro-intestinal disorders and increased infant mortality to an alarming point."

"Only the soldiers in the trenches, government officials and the more affluent classes are receiving sufficient food. The bulk of the people are exposed to a complication of diseases which will leave their traces for generations to come."

"Food rationing among the allies and in America, on the other hand, will only prevent over-eating and build a healthy and sturdy race."

German newspapers reaching the outside world, Prof. Hadlicks said, indicate the German internal condition.

"Reading of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung gives the impression one person of every three in the empire is suffering from dysentery."

"An alarming increase in deaths from phthisis in Berlin, is shown by reports of the Berlin Statistical Bureau. Pneumonia deaths also have increased, as have those from pleurisy."

Official German reports reaching here have placed the figures for these increases at: phthisis, 56 per cent; pneumonia, 62 per cent; other lung diseases, 77 per cent.

"As to infant mortality," states the Viewpoints, "the rate is unusually high this year in Berlin. It is true that the actual number of deaths is below that of recent years, but this is explained by the extraordinary decline in births. Proportionately, the number of infant deaths is considerably more unfavorable this year than last."

"NERVOUSNESS IS GONE," HE SAYS

Joe Kindig was Suffering from Stomach Trouble, Too

"I can't begin to tell you how much good Tanlac has done me," said Joseph D. Dindig, of 352 Ok Lane, York, Pa.

"I was in a miserable condition. I was so nervous that I could hardly work, and this had made my stomach so bad I couldn't eat enough to keep strong."

"I felt weak and tired all the time, but I had no appetite, food didn't appeal to me and when I would force myself to swallow a little just to keep distress afterward. I would fill up with gas until I felt like a balloon and would belch it up in great quantities."

One day I read about Tanlac in the newspaper, where it told how another man regained his health.

"So I got a bottle, and I can't express my delight when I found it was doing me good."

"All that nervousness and tired, weak feeling have gone away. My appetite has come back and I can eat and enjoy my meals without a bit of distress afterward. I don't hesitate to recommend Tanlac for it certainly cured me."

Tanlac, the famous vegetable tonic, is now sold here by Woodward & McPherson.

THIS WILL MAKE MILLIONS HAPPY

Any corn will dry up and lift out.

Says a Cincinnati authority: Let folks step on your feet here after, wear shoes a size smaller than you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is said to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.

CONSPICUOUS DEED OF BRAVERY SHOWN BY FRENCH POLIO

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The French Armies In The Field, Jan. 15. (By Mail.)—Inspiring heroism which sets an example for any soldier is the story of the French Adjutant Joseph Edward Garnier.

Garnier was of a regiment of infantry which fought its way into a German position in the Wood of Chevreux and held its ground against numerous counter-attacks. The following day after a continuous battle of hand grenades and rifles, the first line needed ammunition. The route to the munition depots was swept by German machine guns and sniper's bullets.

Garnier volunteered and started with a group of twelve men. Ten steps and four men fell. Halfway no one remained but Garnier. He escaped unharmful, reached the depots and again traversed the fire swept route with all the grenades and cartridges he could carry. Without a word he started back. The Germans, enraged by his audacity, concentrated their fire on Garnier but again no miraculously reached the depots in safety. Here he organized a new group of volunteers. Inspired by his marvelous sangfroid, all wanted to follow him back to the first line. But choosing a number necessary to carry enough munitions back to last through the night he ordered his followers forward. A short distance and Garnier fell fatally wounded.

An Army citation, unique for its words of praise, told the story of Garnier's bravery.

Dr. F. D. Leibold, dentist, will be absent from his office until Monday, March 4th. F25-6tc

DRINKING AMONG SCHOOLBOYS.

Some time ago a schoolmaster of Cologne, astonished at the poor work done on Mondays by the 54 boys in his class, questioned them as to the manner in which Sunday had been spent. He learned that 19 had spent the evening before in some cafe or beer garden, that 20 had taken wine, 24 beer and 19 brandy; 17 had had both wine and beer, 14 had had wine, beer and brandy, ten had been very tipsy and eight had been napped. Doctor Boyer of Vienna requested a certain number of school directors to divide their 591 pupils into three categories: Good, adequate and inadequate. Then, with their aid, he divided these into five classes: (1) Those to whom alcoholic drinks were unknown; (2) those who drank occasionally; (3) those who drank beer once a day; (4) those who drank it twice daily; (5) those who drank it thrice. The results were as follows:

Good	Adequate	Inadequate
Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
1.....41.8	49.2	9.0
2.....34.1	56.6	9.5
3.....27.8	58.4	18.7
4.....24.9	57.7	18.3
5.....24.9	38.3	66.6

Whence the conclusion that the water-drinker is almost always at least among the adequate, if not among the good, scholars.

THE NATIONAL AMENDMENT.

"If the proposed amendment should be adopted by three-fourths of the states," says United States Senator Sheppard, speaking of national prohibition, "the traffic in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes would be forbidden anywhere within the American republic. Prohibition would be imbedded in the organic law of the nation. Is it not time that the federal government, the largest social unit we have, should take a hand when the traffic in a poisonous drug is taking from the earnings of the American people six times as much as they expend for bread, ten times as much as they expend for furniture, and twice as much as they expend for clothing? As I view the matter," concluded Senator Sheppard, "the member of either branch of the American congress who denies the power of amendment to the states, especially an amendment which vast numbers of the people desire the states to consider, violates the basic principles both of the constitution and of popular government, repudiates the fundamental rights of the states and overturns the two most sacred privileges of referendum and of initiative."

The man who is not willing that the question of national prohibition be submitted to a poll of the states is not traveling the path of safe democracy.

SUPREME MILITARY NECESSITY.

"If we are to pour out our money and blood we must insist that we shall have a fair return for the price we pay. How can it be done? Only in one way that is big enough to be named in the same breath with Europe's gain—the abolition of the liquor traffic! By nation-wide, bone-dry, rock-ribbed, bomb-proof, never-leak prohibition as the largest possible military preparation and the only adequate compensation for the price we pay. Immediate prohibition is a supreme military necessity, and would mean victory against any nation that remains in partnership with rum. I do not tremble for my country, I do not fear the ultimate result, however long drawn out the conflict; but national prohibition would make assurance doubly sure, accelerate the victory, work blessings upon all hardships upon none, and pay dividends for eternity when peace shall come. National constitutional prohibition is our one salvation."—Clinton N. Howard.

IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

The first Monday after the dry law went into effect in the District of Columbia, Judge Muldowny remarked from the bench: "Just think of it! Monday morning docket usually contained the names of from 40 to 50 persons who had been arrested for intoxication. Today we have two or three persons charged with that offense. It is hard to conceive that such a great change could be brought about in so short a time."

BRANDY BRANDS.

Brandy brands a man as the property of a ranch where everything is red hot. As the cowboy on the ranges knows his master's brand on every steer and rounds them up, so at the final round-up the owner of each branded beast will know and claim his own.

SOBER FIGHTERS.

If we cannot afford to let the liquor trade make drunkards of our soldiers, neither can we afford to let the liquor trade make drunkards of the men who are to raise food for the soldiers.—William J. Bryan.

Called the Bluff

By F. A. MITCHELL
(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

When a nation becomes notable for any intellectual achievement the faculty that achieves seems to be inborn in the race. The German race is remarkable for scientific development. This story shows how an uneducated German was willing to suffer imprisonment to test the efficacy of a scientific device.

Herman Gottlieb was suspected of stealing corn from a neighbor's garden. Whether he was really guilty the owner of the garden did not know, but Gottlieb lived near his property and was the only person who did live near it. Besides he was very poor and found it difficult to feed eight or nine children with capacious stomachs. The depredations on the garden continued and the owner decided to make an example of some one, so he pounced upon Gottlieb, had him arrested under the specific charge of stealing a number of ears of corn before daylight on the morning of the arrest. That the prisoner might not be unjustly detained, the trial was set for ten o'clock the day of the arrest.

After the preliminary questions had been put the prosecuting attorney made several attempts to trick the accused man into incriminating himself, but without success. Finally the prosecutor undertook to catch him in a scientific trap.

"Did you ever hear of the X-ray?" he asked Gottlieb.

"No, I never heard about dot; what is dot?"

The prosecutor was taken flat aback. How to tell an ignorant man the nature of the X-ray was a poser. The judge, seeing his discomfiture, smiled.

"The X-ray is a very bright light—so bright that it enables one to look inside of a man. The machine, or we call it lamp, that emits the ray was invented by a countryman of yours."

"A Sherman?" asked the prisoner.

"Yes, a German. His name was Roentgen. The X-ray is sometimes called the Roentgen ray."

Herman seemed interested. The lawyer proceeded.

"This machine is now used by surgeons to locate a bullet that is lodged inside a man. If you had swallowed a nail it could be seen in your stomach by means of this instrument."

"Got in Mimmel! Dot machine was invented in Sherman?"

"Yes, it was made in Germany; but I'm going to use it in America. I'm going to bring one of them into the court and look into your stomach with it."

"Vot you do dat for?"

"To prove that you ate corn for breakfast this morning."

"Vot dat machin show corn in my stomach?" asked the prisoner, seemingly more interested in the machine than that it might prove him guilty.

"If you robbed the cornfield as charged, you undoubtedly ate the fruits of your robbery for breakfast and the Roentgen lamp will show it in your stomach."

"Mein Gott! vot a machine!"

"Now, Gottlieb, if you will plead guilty I will ask his honor to give you a light sentence."

The prisoner appeared to be lost in thought. The prosecutor, thinking that he had not heard the question, repeated it. Then suddenly Gottlieb called the bluff.

"Bring on dot machine."

By this time the judge, the court and the spectators were on the tiptoe of expectation of an amusing scene. The prosecutor assumed a severe air and, calling an attendant, sent him for an electric lamp. The prisoner was so intent upon it that he did not see the smiles of those present.

"Prisoner," said the prosecuting attorney with great severity, "will you plead guilty and take a light sentence or suffer the full penalty of the law if I find corn in your stomach?"

Herman's face assumed an expression of a struggle within him. The court was led to believe that he dreaded exposure from the Roentgen ray but doubted its efficacy. Finally he turned to the judge and said:

"Vot hastenest you gif me if he find dot corn in my stomach?"

"Ten days in jail."

The prisoner looked again at the electric lamp, which the prosecutor was flashing for the purpose of terrifying him.

"Ferry well, I go to jail; but I won't confess dat I vas guilty."

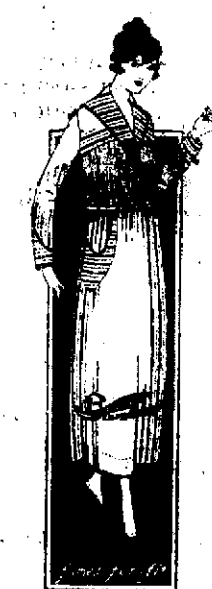

There was nothing for the attorney to do but carry out his purpose; he flashed the lamp against the prisoner's stomach and feigned to examine it with a reading glass.

"There it is," he said. "You must have eaten a dozen ears." Then turning to the judge, he added: "Having proved the prisoner guilty, your honor, it remains for you to pass sentence upon him. And on account of his persistence in denying his guilt I urge that you make it all that the law allows."

Repressing his laughter, the judge said:

"Prisoner stand up."
The prisoner rose.
"Have you anything to say why I should not pass sentence upon you?"
"Yes, juteh. Dot machine vas never made in Sherman in de world. It is a humbug and don't tell de truth. All I had for breakfast dis morning vas a dish of sauerkraut."
There was an explosion in the courtroom, the only official word spoken being, "Case dismissed."

FIGHTER OF FRONTIER AND FRONT PROMOTED IN BRITISH RECRUITING

These Came Back From No Man's Land.

A background of intrepid service not only in the bitter fighting in France but before the war in the Royal North West Mounted Police, was related by officers of the British Canadian Recruiting Mission as reason for the promotion to command to the Western Division, of Major A. Wallace Owen. He was one of the men of the Royal West Mounted Police detailed to hold the grim re-straint the border characters who fanned into the Klondike in the Alaska gold rush.

As a type of "the men who came back from No Man's Land," Major Owen's experience explains the keen interest shown at recruiting rallies and meetings addressed by officers and men of the Mission in intensive efforts to get as volunteers the British subjects who in three months or so will be subject to the United States draft.

Major Owen saw the bitterest fighting at Ypres, the Somme, Vimy Ridge and Messines. He was in the thick of fighting during which 150 officers who came to his battalion were killed or wounded. From the day when he was given command of his company in the "Bloody Ypres salient" through the great battles which followed, the then Captain Owen led a charmed life as he never received more than a trivial wound, notwithstanding officer after officer assigned to serve with him, was carried back dead or wounded. Time after time he went over the top in attacks on the German trenches.

The staff of the Mission at all depots is made up of "returned men" who although on sick leave or invalided out of service, continue to fight the only way they can, which is by sending forward recruits to strengthen the British lines to France.

Debate the great scarcity of print paper in Germany, recent issues of British parliament adds about 8,000,000 to the electorate, of whom 6,000,000 are women over 30 years of age. It is believed that the women will constitute about two-fifths of the whole number of voters.
